

Thus, the 2nd law of thermodynamics (heat loss entropy) agrees with the bible in regards to a start of time and an eventual end of time as we know it, while evolutionary teaching has not been able to prove otherwise. Evolutionists basically say everything was formed out of nothing, for example a big explosion. However the problem still remains that there has to be matter before it is possible to have an explosion like “the big bang theory” proposes.

So in the two instances, the biblical creationists and the evolutionists, both have to believe their particular view by faith.

Summary... The choice is yours, if you are looking for a reason for our universe and our existence. It would be a wise decision to seek your answers from God’s Holy Book rather than the fickle theories of man who cannot come to a clear understanding of the past or future.

God also invites all men to believe on the miraculous birth, death and resurrection of His son Jesus as a way to defeat eternal death and receive eternal life.

The Bible says in John 3:16 ..... For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

Why There Has To Be .... A Creator

When creationists and evolutionists argue over how the universe came into existence, they should first consider including a scientifically derived starting point for time and matter.

There are universal laws such as the laws of thermodynamics that should be applied as a yardstick to explain what must have happened long ago, as there were no human eye witnesses present then.

Firstly, the universe is made up of atoms and that means there had to be “matter” for all the foundation materials of our universe to exist. These foundation atoms had to come into being at the starting point of time (causation) as there are no laws of physics that say “matter was made from nothing.” Therefore the only argument can be “where did the atoms or matter come from?”

The Holy Bible says God was before and not part of creation.... Gen1:1....”In the beginning (that is start of time) God created the heaven and the earth..” The heaven being the sky or atmosphere in the above instance.
